WHEELING TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Third Day's Sessions Were Largely Attended, and Most Interesting to the Teachers.

SUPT. ANDERSON IS PLEASED

With the Progress Being Made—Entertaining Talks by Instructors Bryan and McMurray.

The third day of the Wheeling Teachers' Institute opened with a full attendance, and most auspiciously. It seems to be a conceded fact that this is one of the best institutes ever held in the city, if not the best, and those who are not attending are missing what they cannot afford to miss. Especially is this true as to teachers. Messrs. McMurray and Bryan are masters of the situation at this institute and their labors are being fully appreciated.

The morning session opened by singing, "Guide Me O Thou Great Jehovah," by the Institute. Professor McGlenn, of Martin's Ferry, by permission, called attention to the many publications he was in charge for sale.

The roll was called, after which Superintendent Anderson, before introducing the first speaker, made some pertinent remarks. He said he was pleased with the institute this far. He was pleased with the reports in the papers and he was especially pleased with an editorial in one of the city papers concerning the institute. He asked all teachers and principals, to make their schools progressive and aggressive all along the line. If they are not what they should be make them so. All should do better work this year than they ever did in their lives before.

Professor McMurray continued the lesson on history which was begun Tuesday, using the class as he did then. He first reviewed the lesson of Tuesday, the pupils generally answering promptly. Two of the children were asked to draw in a few minutes a map of the Ohio valley, which they did promptly, and it was true, but it showed that the lesson had taken hold of the minds of the children. Several of them told very correctly and promptly the story of the preceding lesson. The lesson was then continued in a very interesting vein, giving a further account of Clark's treatment of the Indians in the northwestern territory. Both lessons were but the historical account of George Rogers Clark's expedition against the British and the capture of Forts Kaskaskia and Vincennes. Dr. McMurray's lectures take the form, in the truest sense of good school-room work.

A recess of ten minutes was given, after which "The West Virginia Hills" was sung. Professor Bryan consumed the last hour of the forenoon session in a talk full of power. Every one's problem in life is made up of two factors. One of these is ourselves and the other the rest of the world. The one who considers the second factor ignoring the first is apt to become an insane fatalist. We cannot afford to ignore either, but we must remember it takes both to make up the true life. The professor said that he intended to give three lectures and a sermon in forty minutes, and they would be the same lecture. If he were talking to young people he would call it experience; if to the pessimist he would say to him, "What is on the outside corresponds to what is within; if to teachers he would call it perception. If you prefer a sermon, my text would be: "To him that hath shall be given, but to him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath." All will be given in the one talk and those that heard the talk were convinced that everything promised had been given. The great point in the entire talk was that we get everything out of a thing, that we have inside of our heads concerning it. He gave this illustration: The teacher who needs this instruction the least, will get the most out of it, and the teacher who needs it the most will get the least out of it. This is the rule. It is true. In the course in his talk he referred to the habit of reading trashy literature, and the duty of the teacher in leading to the reading of good literature. We must be discouraged if our boys and girls cannot see just as we see. They have not had the experience. What we get out of life to-day is just in proportion to the experience we have already had in life. But what has this to do with school teaching? Much every way. We must first find out the capital stock contained in the head of the child. You cannot shoot right until you can locate the mark; i. e., the head of the child. Several instances of a very affecting nature were given to illustrate his points. We must then find just where our children are. When they leave us they will get out of what the world has for them—just what we have prepared them to get out of it.

The institute was called to order promptly at 1:30 o'clock by Professor Brilles, of Washington school. "Twilight is Stealing" was sung, led by Professor Hammond, after which Dr. McMurray continued his instruction. In referring to the lesson given by him to the boys and girls he said he thought that it is a good thing for teachers to teach in each other's presence. This is what he is doing in these lessons. Five minutes or more were consumed in asking and answering questions. These answers brought out the idea that the two studies, geography and history, are very closely connected, linked together as it were. These history stories ought to correspond to the geography being studied at the same time. The purpose of the history stories is to get an insight into the lives of those men who have done so much to make American history. They should be commenced in about the fourth grade. As a rule, he said that history or history stories should be taught or given as follows:

Fourth grade—Stories of Mississippi Valley.
Fifth grade—Stories of North America.
Sixth grade—Stories of Colonial History.

Seventh grade—Revolutionary War, with book.

Eighth grade—Constitutional Period, with book.

In speaking of the reciting of history by note, he stated that it was unfortunate for any one to have a good memory. There is no country in the world that has in it the material for these historical stories as has our own United States of America. In this way true patriotism is taught. Some one has said that God sifted out the best of three kingdoms in order to get seed good to plant in this new world, from which has sprung the greatest nation of the world. A recess of ten minutes was taken, after which a song was sung and the roll was called.

The remainder of the afternoon was consumed by Professor Bryan. His subject was, "The avenues whereby the outside and the inside come in contact with each other." The individual must give to others as well as to receive from others. We will never reach our highest development until we do this. We must give and take in this life. This is true even in the vegetable life. We cannot spend our lives in laboratories and meet or reach our highest development. He spoke of the development of the five senses. If a child were born into the world without any of the senses, it never could know anything. The sense of touch is the fundamental sense. Biologists find that this is the first sense developed, and that it underlies the development of all the other senses. Then why have any other sense than that of touch, if there can be no other sense in the absence of that of touch? It is because of the limitations of that of touch. There would be too great a strain on a poor memory. Then then impressions would all be those of synthesis. The eye takes off a part of the strain that would be put on this one sense, and so do the other three senses. We should be sure to know our pupils well enough to know whether our pupils have all their senses perfectly. Several illustrations were given to enforce his instructions.

Institute Notes.

C. M. Thompson, of the Caxton School Supply Company, of Chicago, was at the institute yesterday, taking hands with his many friends among the teachers of Wheeling.

Mrs. E. J. Handy nee Miss Lula Ferguson, one of the former teachers of Ritchie school, who, as Superintendent Anderson expressed it, has listened to the voice of the charmer thus bettering her condition, could not resist the impulse to mingle again with her former co-workers and hence she was an interested spectator yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Brittingham, pastor of St. Luke's Episcopal church, was a visitor yesterday.

Rev. W. A. Hartman, pastor of the Second English Lutheran church, South Wheeling, was present in the afternoon and was pleased with all he saw and heard.

Mr. Bryan made use of this expression—At the end of six weeks I had a written review to find out how well I had been doing my work. It would be well to let this sink in. We may sometimes give examinations to find out how well our pupils have been doing their work instead of how well we have been doing ours.

Each day convinces more and more that we are highly favored this year, as far as instructors are concerned.

BANDA ROSSA TUESDAY.

Music Which Moves Its Hearers, to Tears.

The Banda Rossa, which made such a great hit here last season, will be the attraction at Wheeling Park Casino on Tuesday. A matinee and evening performance will be given, and spiegel motors will be run. The great band has repeated its triumph of last season, and its splendid music never fails to please. An exchange says of a recent concert:

Eugenio Sorrentino, the conductor of the Banda Rossa, is proving a constant surprise at Fairmount Park. Tuesday night he entered the field of rag-time for encores, and last night he took up American folk songs and ballads. He played "Home, Sweet Home," and "My Old Kentucky Home," and scores of people cried, some of them aloud. The music stole straight to the heart, and handkerchiefs came forth in all directions. No greater tribute than these tears has been paid the Banda Rossa. And it is pleasant to know, too, that Kansas City's greeting to the band has been more cordial, the most flattering, extended by any western city, on its first visit.

This year was the Banda Rossa's second season at Minneapolis, and the enthusiasm there was more marked than it is here now, but it was not so last year. The Banda Rossa is playing at Fairmount Park nightly before applauding thousands. These Italians are quick to feel the mood of an audience, and encouragement brings reward in finer ensemble and more spirited tempo.

Is It Gout?

That aching foot may be gouty—it may be rheumatism. Whichever it may be TONGALINE is the remedy. The unfriendly acid in the blood and the deposits in the joints, which cause gout, must be driven out before a permanent cure can be secured. This is exactly what TONGALINE does. It is the most effective eliminative known. It banishes pain quickly without depending for its wonderful power on opium, morphine or other dangerous narcotic.

TIN PLATE CONFERENCE

Will be Held at Pittsburgh To-morrow, and It is Believed the Tin-Plate Scale Will be Agreed Upon. Sheet Scale Prospects Are Not So Bright.

The final conference on the tin plate wage scale has been called. It will commence at Pittsburgh Friday morning at 10 o'clock, and there seems to be no doubt now that a settlement will be reached and all the tin plate plants in the country started at an early date.

As already told the differences between the representatives of the Amalgamated Association and the American Tin Plate Company are slight. By a vote of the lodges the demand for a reduction in the base from $4 25 to $4 a box was waived and a compromise fixing the base at $4 20 a box has practically been agreed upon.

The obstacle to a settlement was officially given out Wednesday. There are two foot notes in the new scale that have been objected to by the manufacturers. One prohibits the manufacturer from discharging a roller for breaking a roll, and the other gives the roller the right to employ the standing crew. The company formerly employed the men and paid them. The last named foot note will, it is believed, be waived by the men, and the other objectionable note may be modified.

The workers contend that district managers sometimes insist on a certain output, which seriously strains the rolls, and to comply with orders a roll is likely to be broken, for which the roller is not responsible. A roll is valued at from $400 to $500. Some of the members of the committee are willing to allow the company the privilege of discharging a roller for breaking a roll when it is clearly shown that the break is due to carelessness. The differences are so slight that it is confidently stated by representatives of both sides that a settlement will be reached at the conference on Friday.

The stock of tin plate has been almost entirely consumed since the shut-down of the mills on July 1, and an early start is desired by the combination. The demand is good and prices are firm. When the scale has been settled with the Amalgamated Association there will be no delay in arranging a conference with the Tin Plate Workers' International Protective Association. Some concessions may be made by the workers in the tin house scale, and it is confidently predicted that the tin plate mills will be in full operation before the middle of next month. This will give employment to fully 50,000 men.

The scale for the rolling mills remains in bad shape. While no positive knowledge can be obtained as to the result of the vote, it is believed that the required number of votes has been cast to insist on the original demand. If this is correct it means that the representatives of the industrial combinations must concede the demands of the workers or a strike will be ordered in the union iron mills by the Amalgamated Association. Nothing definite, however, will be known until the votes have been counted.

BRYAN IS COMING.

He Will Likely Address a Mass Meeting in Wheeling Next Thursday. Will be the Guest of John T. McGraw—Three Speeches in West Virginia.

Charles H. Taney, of the Register, is in receipt of a letter from National Democratic Committeeman John T. McGraw, of Grafton, stating that Col. William Jennings Bryan, the Democratic candidate for President, will come to West Virginia next week. During his stay in this state Colonel Bryan will be the guest of Mr. McGraw. It is stated that Colonel Bryan will make at least three addresses in West Virginia during this visit, and that one of these will be in Wheeling—probably next Thursday evening, September 6. The date is not yet settled definitely. The second speech will probably be made at Clarksburg, and the third at the big reunion of citizens of four states at Morgan's Grove in Jefferson county. An address at Cumberland, Md., is also in view.

NEW students are enrolling with us every day under our special summer offer. Ask any of our students what they think of our school. $10 saved by enrolling on or before September 3. Call and investigate. THE ELLIOTT SCHOOL, Market St.

AMUSEMENTS.

Minstrelsy has been and promises to continue to be the favorite form of amusement for four-fifths of the theatre-going public—and well it should be—for no manner of a performance can include such a variety of material necessary for the edification of the multitudes. Promptly at the appointed hour the curtain rises, and from that moment until the finale you have fun without a blush. Songs of sentiment by the world's greatest vocalists, comic ditties by the best comedians on earth, who also furnish humor without a taint. The songs have been sung; jokes have been told; the Adonis-like person in the middle has his friendly repartee with the various comedians with the bones and "tambos." The sentiment of the balladist may have caused you to be possessed of a feeling of intoxication; the festive wit of the comedians amused you; the charming acts of the first part in its entirety has possibly astonished you, yet the glamour, frolic and fun rolls on without a hindrance. On Tuesday night, September 4, John W. Vogel & Arthur Deming's Big Minstrels will be seen at the Opera House. The company is half a hundred strong and boasts of a roster second to none.

"The Star Boarder."

A tornado of fun and laughter is announced at the Grand Opera House, for three nights, commencing this evening, with the usual Saturday matinee, when a new and original farce comedy, "The Star Boarder," will be presented. Charles H. Boyle will be responsible as the star for inflicting this amusing absurdity on pleasure lovers, for he will be involved in "doing" the title role. He will be aided in his conspiracy to promote merriment by numerous specialists, including a score of fair and nimble young women in brilliant gowns. The object of this piece—to make play-goers light-hearted and dispel blues—has been achieved without introducing a plot. A majority of the theatre-goers rather roar at nonsensical things than think out the plot of a play. The "Boarder" is regarded as a 10 to 1 winner.

Week of Splendid Repertoire.

Good entertainment at a nominal price will be the rule at the Grand Opera House all next week. John A. Himmelein's Comedy Company, "The Ideals" open their annual engagement next Monday evening, with a splendid production of the sterling play, "In the Heart of the Storm." The company this year is larger than ever and the roster will be found to contain the names of many favorites, prominent among them the charming soubrette, Miss Beatrice Earle. Other plays included are "Eagle's Nest," "Northern Lights," "The Lost Paradise," "The Pulse of Chinatown," "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," and "The Golden Nugget." The sale of seats will open at the usual time.

EDMUND YAHN TO SING

At Wheeling Park To-morrow Night. The Sunday Attraction.

Edmund Yahn, the popular baritone singer, who will appear at the concert to be given by the Opera House Military Band at Wheeling Park to-morrow night, is a native of this city, and has a host of friends who will be eager to hear him. His training at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music has made a vast improvement in his voice, and he is recognized as the leading baritone in that city of musical culture. The concert will commence at 8:15 o'clock.

Thayer's Military Band, of Canton, which rivals the famous G. A. R. band, will give a concert at the Park Sunday afternoon.

WANTED—50,000 Belmont beer bottles at the brewery.
